Hours: M 10-6, T/W/TH 10-8, F/S 10-4

Babies go through a lot—A LOT—of diapers.

During July, South Whitley Community Public Library is serving as a drop-off location for Babe of Whitley County's first-ever diaper drive.

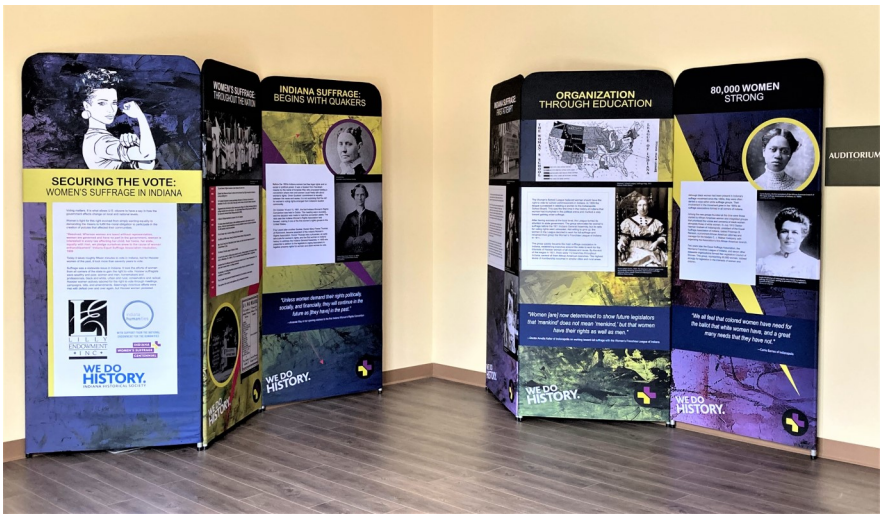
South Whitley patrons and residents may drop off diapers, pull-ups, sippy cups, baby wipes and baby wash at the library. The items will help stock Babe's shelves.

Babe is an incentive program that encourages expectant parents and families to participate in partner programs and services that benefit the health and well-being of infants and young children.

SWCPL offers BABE coupons to families when they participate in childhood reading programs at SWCPL.

Claire Brandenburg, a senior at Whitko Junior-Senior High School, has joined the SWCPL staff as a circulation clerk.

Claire enjoys reading graphic novels and mysteries.



Check out the new display on loan to SWCPL from the Indiana Historical Society.

Nine panels tell the story of the fight for women's voting rights in Indiana. The exhibit is located in the auditorium lobby and can be viewed during regular library hours through July 19.

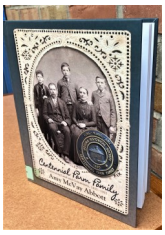
A Pioneer Family's story



Using historical records, family stories and newspaper articles, South Whitley native Amy McVay Abbott shares the tale of her pioneer family moving to and settling in Whitley County. Her new book, Centennial Farm Family, provides a snapshot of pioneer and farm life—the joys and the tragedies—through the stories of four generations of her family that journeyed to Indiana and made it their home. The book is available at SWCPL.
